Gender Pay Gap Statement April 2021

Background The Equality Act 2010 (Gender Pay Gap Information) Regulations 2017 requires all private sector employers with 250 or more employees to publish gender pay information on an annual basis, relating to the pay period that includes 5 April each year.

Perry Hall MAT is committed to the principle of equal opportunities and equal treatment for all employees. The Gender Pay Gap (GPG) is the difference between the average earnings of men and women, expressed relative to men's earnings and is not to be confused with Equal Pay which requires men and women doing the same job to receive the same pay. The table below shows the data produced in relation to the 2021/22 reporting requirement.

The Trust is confident that its gender pay gap does not stem from paying men and women differently for the same or equivalent work. Rather its gender pay gap is the result of the roles in which men and women work within the Trust and the salaries that these roles attract, plus the substantially higher level of female employment within the Trust. Information not required by the government reporting requirements supports this, with the two highest paid employees being women, and only 30% of the top 10 being men.
